

Key Census Dates

March 1–8, 2000: Households receive an advance letter about the upcoming census. If you need a census form in Spanish, Chinese, Korean, Tagalog, or Vietnamese, look for this letter. Mark the appropriate box on the reverse side of the letter and return it in the postage-paid envelope.

March 13–15, 2000: Census forms mailed to 118 million households.

March 13–17, 2000: Teach Census Week

April 1, 2000: CENSUS DAY!

April 27, 2000: Enumerators begin visiting households that have not returned their forms by mail.

December 31, 2000: Official census numbers delivered to the president.

Where to Get Help

Questionnaire Assistance Centers, staffed by multilingual census experts, will be set up in communities across the country and will be open from March 8 to April 14, 2000. Stop by if you have questions about, or need help completing, the census form; did not receive a census form; or have questions about the census in general. In early March, look around your community for posters listing Questionnaire Assistance Center locations.

Language Assistance Guides, available in 49 languages, are designed to help you understand and answer the questions on the census form. Guides will be available in March at Questionnaire Assistance Centers and on the Census Bureau's Web site: www.census.gov.

Telephone assistance is available if you need help completing the census form. The toll-free telephone number is listed on the back page of the census form.

Job Opportunities

The U.S. Census Bureau has thousands of openings for census takers this spring, some in your own community. These are good, interesting part-time jobs with competitive wages that are paid weekly. Hours are flexible, but are primarily during evenings and weekends when most residents are home.

If you would like to be part of historic Census 2000, call toll free 1-888-325-7733 for information. The Bureau of the Census is an Equal Opportunity Employer.
